Section E: Comprehension (MCQ) (5 X 2 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

The first rays of dawn touched Okari's face and he opened his eyes to the glare. Cold, aching and hungry, he decided to pluck up the courage and search for food in the forest.

Okari was separated from his family when they went hunting yesterday after dusk. Now, he was lost. As he walked down the hill towards the river, Okari noticed how beautiful the sight was when the edges of a fern leaf caught the gleam of the sun. "Going without dinner the previous night has sharpened my vision," he said to himself.

The soft chirping of a cricket reached him next. It seemed to him he could also hear things better that morning than ever before. His uncle had told him that people could see and hear better when they did not have any food for a time.

As Okari trod on the damp ground, he was cautioned by a noise. It sounded like a growling of an animal. He slowed down and finally stopped to listen more closely. He looked around, trying to figure out its source. It did not take him long, for the sound came from his own stomach. It was growling with hunger.

Section F: Comprehension (Open-ended) (10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer questions that follow.

Once there was an elderly widow, Chen Ma, who lived with her only son in a forest. Her son was a tiger hunter and they got by on profits from the sale of tiger skins, meat and bones.

All was well until Chen Ma's son was separated from his fellow hunters and became food for a hungry tigress. One day, the hunters succeeded in killing the tigress that ate Chen Ma's son and they brought her the tigress' newborn cub. Before that, they had tied a thick rope around its neck. It was an unnecessary act. When she saw it, Chen Ma's heart instantly went out to this helpless creature, whose body was shaking with fright and eyes glistening with tears.

The elderly widow looked at the cub and shuddered. The hunters had told her to kill it for her meat supply. Its skin was also good for boots against the cold floor. However, it would break her heart to kill it. It was so young and helpless. It was just not right.

Chen Ma untied the rope from the little tiger's neck and looked after it from then on. When spring came, it had grown into the size of a calf, showing a full set of teeth and claws. The women who visited Chen Ma told their hunter husbands to kill the frightening young tiger.

When Chen Ma heard about that, she was determined to protect the young tiger at all costs.
