5 When we reached our destination, many old folks received us with open arms. Most of the old folks were energetic and bubbly, although age was catching up with some of them. They were very grateful when we distributed the gifts like canned food, sacks of rice, biscuits and beverages.

10 Then the manager gave us a tour of the home and its various facilities. She also explained to us that some of the residents were not mobile and required assistance to move about.

Soon, the matron of the home assembled the old people in the function hall to watch our performance of songs and dances. We invited some of them to participate. SECTION F: COMPREHENSION (5 x 2 m = 10 marks)

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Tom and his friends listened intently to what their teacher was saying. The boys were part of the school's Red Cross Brigade. Tom joined the brigade as he had always wanted to know more about first aid. Besides gaining knowledge about first aid, Tom learned self-discipline.

5 As Mr Tan, their teacher, was about to show the students how to perform CPR on a life-sized dummy, there was a loud crash outside the school fence. Tom and his friends turned towards the direction of the crash and were stunned to see a bus smashed against one of the trees by the road.

10 Mr Tan immediately told the boys to get their first aid equipment and assemble in front of the school gate. Like a well-oiled machine, the boys went through the emergency drill without panic or alarm. Soon, all of them were assembled at the gate awaiting the orders of Mr Tan.

15 The boys quickly rushed to the badly-damaged bus and Mr Tan issued orders regarding the responsibilities of each group member. Tom was assigned to provide first aid for the injured people. As he opened his first aid kit, an elderly man was brought to him with a deep gash on his forearm. The old man groaned in pain and Tom immediately reassured him. The wound was bleeding badly. Without shying away from it, Tom carefully checked for fragments of glass and tied a temporary bandage on the wound to stop the bleeding.

20 Soon, the wailing sirens signalled the arrival of the ambulance and the professional paramedics took control of the situation. The boys were praised for their good deed and Tom was extremely glad that he was able to apply the skills that he had been taught to help the injured.

Answer these questions. Write your answers in complete sentences.
